 Dr. A. Hoecker, spokesperson of Gfitter
 Dr. T. Naumann, moderator
 12 zfitter/dizet authors

Dear Dr. Hoecker,

yesterday you informed me and Sabine that Gfitter finally decided on a new approach at the transparencies of talks given by Gfitter authors in the future (for about one year or so), expressing the authorships of Gfitter/GSM.

Unfortunately, you forgot to attach a copy of that.

Certainly, this is a formal thing, but nevertheless:

We see a certain progress in this field of discussion but cannot agree on 'closing the ticket' in the moderation process.

Please, send us the document you have in mind.

Another point are software package and webpages.

software:

You announce on your webpage certain things related to Gfitter/GSM.

We [= zfitter] did not agree on how to proceed.

We [= you and me] started an exchange of opinions on that but this was stopped by Gfitter at an early stage about 2 weeks ago.

E.g. I sent several questions or options, but did not get reply.

E.g. you prefer BSD license, now you use some GPL, but not a correct one, not consulting us. No CPC license. You publish some author lists which look just crazy.

This is totally confusing, it is not done in a fair manner and - the most critical point - you do this alone, without our [= zfitter] involvement.

I would like to recommend you the following:

- Do what you like on your webpage, but please have in mind that there are parts of common [future] intellectual property.

- It would be wise if certain parts - those where you need an explicit agreement from zfitter concerning the content - would not yet be clickable by the public from visible hyperlinks.

Better things are shown only to us [= zfitter] as a part of discussion material.

We will not agree on all the contents shown by today, dated by 21 July 2011.

This includes:

<http://gfitter.desy.de/download.html>

http://gfitter.desy.de/gsm\_authors.html

http://gfitter.desy.de/gpl\_license.html

Why do you do so?

Please, have also in mind that we did not allow the use of zfitter software or parts of it in Gfitter. The use is definitely illegal as you = Gfitter know, and sometimes we tolerate this to some extent, but on a single-case basis.

It would be much, much more urgent to Gfitter to correct at the wrong reference to the 'Theoretical predictions'.

<http://gfitter.desy.de/GSM/>

This is easy and urgent because Gfitter breaks with the statements on zfitter explicitly and, in the meantime one has to state that, intentionally the CPC licenses of zfitter.

It would also be wise if Gfitter people would agree against us and the public [e.g. in your subject case NEWS at:]

<http://gfitter.desy.de/>

that there are license/copyright problems with gfitter/zfitter which have to be solved, what never has been done.

Your actions reflect this.

Best regards, Tord Riemann

PS:

I am in vacations and propose to stop the active moderation process in all its time demanding parts until the end of August.
